

Faculty of Medicine

University of Dhaka

Title of Thesis:

Awareness of Adolescent Students About Reproductive Health

Kabul Afghanistan

By

Shamsurahman

Session: 2017-2018

DU Registration No:

Roll No: 245

Submitted in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree of Master of

M.Sc. in Rehabilitation Science

May 2019

Bangladesh Health Professions Institute (BHPI)

ABSTRACT

Mostly regarding the reproductive health in the third world the adolescents are not aware of it. The present study evaluate the knowledge of adolescent regarding their RH that how much they know about it. The study assess about adolescent perception, attitude regarding RH, besides to see the facilities available in respect to the awareness of adolescent regarding RH.

The essential needed information is accumulated from the few selected university students, along this specific recommendation and suggestion determined to enhance the level of awareness in the adolescent and youngster regarding their RH.

The term adolescence is currently considered as 2nd phase of human life that make various changes from the time of childhood into the adult life, this stages goes huge psychological and bodily physical changes that takes place. There is very less researches have been conducted to see the knowledge, perception, behaviour and attitude of adolescents in the country, Afghanistan the main specific issues that is related to reproductive health of adolescent. There are many stereotypical aspects of reproductive health which is mainly concerned and leading to the negative practice of health care, which is causing the adolescent to be more prone to risk of health.

The current research study is regarding the various aspects such as approach, knowledge, requirements, attitude, belief, perception and awareness, beside all these the role of father and mother, instructors as well as the means of collection of information regarding the reproductive health of the adolescence.

Now that Afghanistan is having the huge population of adolescents, as history recorded, approximately Afghanistan current estimated population is 36.37 million in current survey conducted in 2018 that showed in the most latest United Nation report. Nearly the population of quarter is in between 10 and 14 of the age. The current report of the population of 40.92% which male is 7.093.980 in meanwhile female is 6.869.737 is of population in total.